INDIA:

Mission Focus for May

In addition to Witnessing Ministries of Christ, our congregation has had several mission connections in India.

One is Maggie Cuff Ogonek who we recently contacted about her experience in India and she sent this response: “In 2011, I had the privilege of spending a year in India being the PC(USA) hands of mission through the Young Adult Volunteer Program (YAV). During this year, I lived, laughed and loved at a residential all-girls school in Kerala, India. I spent my days empowering young girls through teaching English, playing games, and being present for the girls in a way other teachers at the school were not. I spread God's love by creating joy and connection - a reminder that God's got the whole world in His Hands.” Maggie grew up in NWPC and is Tim & Carolyn Cuffs' daughter.

In 2015, Kelcey Bailey, a Westminster College student at that time, went to India through a Justice Mission Group whose concern was human trafficking. Kelcey is Ethel Bailey's granddaughter.

Margaret Courtright who died in 2017, was a “mission kid” in northern India where her father and mother, Dr. John & Elizabeth Taylor, were both medical missionaries treating patients with leprosy. Several parents suffering from the disease requested the Taylors to please take their children out of the conditions of the leper colony to their mission station. That was the beginning of what came to be the Bhogpur Children's Home and by the time the Taylors retired in 1964 the number of children being housed and educated had grown to 125. Even after moving to New Wilmington with her husband in 1982, Margaret's connection to India continued. She served on our Mission Committee for several years and educated us about the many needs of those considered outcasts.
